Senator Borah Wins

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Franklin, 1901, in King's Chapel, Boston, the day after his election as President.

President Roosevelt's neighbors at Hyde Park called at midnight after the election to congratulate him. He talked to them on the porch of the house where he was born and where Roosevelt have lived and voted for more than 100 years.

With him stood his wife and his mother. The latter, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, 82 years old, said to a friend while the crowd was cheering, "Franklin has always been a good boy. I have always thought well of him."

Election day news indicates that many other Americans think well of him. To carry 46 out of 48 states and get the biggest vote ever cast for anybody in a free election since the world began, is an achievement. This writer expected a landslide for the President and had written three weeks ago to a friend in the White House that the President would carry every state west of the Hudson river and a majority of the states east of the Hudson. He did not quite expect as many as 46 of the 48 states.

A respectable inhabitant of Massachusetts, calling on President Coolidge, said: "Mr. President, I ought to tell you that I did not vote for you." The President replied, with his best New England accent: "Well, some did. President Roosevelt would borrow that."

Wall Street stopped shivering yesterday and dried its eyes to take note of the fact that stocks were going up gaily, all except the "utilities" which meant somebody is afraid that someone is going to do something to the light and power companies. It was a regular old-fashioned boom, stocks up one to six points.

When the trading stopped and brokers homeward wended their way, they were at 2 1/2 in metals, "industries," "commercials" and other stocks were selling for a couple of thousand million dollars more than they were worth at ten o'clock the same day. But don't gamble; things can go the other way.

According to Science Service, if whiskey is subjected for seven hours to "intense sound vibrations," which means "the sound of the seven noisy hours will age the whiskey as much as four years in the usual way."

Think what noise can do to the delicate nervous system of the human being if in seven hours it can add four years to the age of raw whiskey.

Manhattan's orders for automobile drivers to blow their horns in Rome, "Use your eyes and your intelligence instead of your horns," should be copied widely.

It is good news, for those "not like genuine America" that Senator Borah of Idaho is re-elected. Senator Borah is 68 years old, but that doesn't prevent his being seventy-nine times as young and energetic as an average man.

In Harlem, New York city, there was a pause in the day's occupation, 50,000 colored voters kept away from the polls because "Father Divine," Negro clergyman, with extraordinary influence over his followers, ordered them not to vote. He explained "not one of the major parties has come to me and accepted of my righteous government plan."

"Father Divine," who calls himself "dean of the universe," and is called "God" by his followers, may find it necessary to run for President himself. He said he might lead some religious gentlemen running against him. Keeping politics and politics separate is no longer the fashion.

How much do you think it costs to collect and count 7,000,000 votes? Some voters were expensive. In the 4th congressional district of the 10th assembly district, in New York city, the voters were paid $100,000. The Times Square Temple, He lives and preaches in the synagogue at 240 West 28th street, and it cost the city $300 to remove his vote.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York set a good example to other mayors, spending all day voting place to another, listening to complaints, keeping track of conditions, visiting police stations. In one case he found a police captain not yet out of bed, in another one, not yet dressed, and sent an alarm clock to the police commissioner with the suggestion that he give it to the sleepy police captain. There would have been fewer dishonest elections in New York city if Continued on Page 2, Column 1

GOV. CURLEY VOICES HIS ANGER AT FR. COUGHLIN

MAYORALTY QUESTIONS PARRIED

Governor Curley, returning to his office at the state house today, after his overwhelming defeat at the polls by Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., told reporters his opinion of Father Coughlin would be "unprintable."

The Governor made this statement when asked about a telegram which one of his secretaries, Frank L. Kane, sent to the radio prior to blaming Father Coughlin for Curley's defeat.

The Kane telegram, signed "Frank Coughlin," did not withdraw Kane's criticism of Curley. The telegram said: "Have you seen Frank Kane's telegram?" the governor was asked.

"Yes," he said. "What is your reaction to it?"

"I have nothing to say," he said.

SHIP STRIKE BREAKS, RED ROUT ON

Reports came from all over the country today indicating that the oil-shipping strike is breaking up.

Authorized union leaders in Boston had the radicals on the run, with both the St. John and Yarmouth of the Eastern Steamship Line still plying between here and New York and Yarmouth, respectively.

Left-wing pickets were fully repulsed, in crews of these two ships, and while the strikers succeeded in lying up the cutter James O. Richards as it docked in Chelsea this morning, there was a general sympathy among the radicals along the waterfront.

Predictions were made that the strike would be ended within 24 hours and late today Percy J. Payor, local secretary of the I. S. U., was in New York conferring with union officials on the question of replacing strikers with regular crew on ship-ships.

The same encouraging reports came from Providence where a sailors' committee, formed by order of Ivan Hather, secretary of the International Seamen's Union, met to get a letter for calling off the dogs.

Benet Murphy, Boston strike leader, was a little dejected in getting to the waterfront today because he had to appear in court.

Majority Rule

THIS country is still a democracy. The will of the people is expressed freely at the polls. The overwhelming majority of the popular vote for Mr. Roosevelt shows conclusively that the Roosevelt policies are what the people of this nation want.

And if these policies are what they want, these policies are what they are entitled to have and will have.

The cardinal principle of our American democracy is government by the majority.

The minority are entitled to their opinions and to a free expression of them, but the will of the majority must prevail.

The decision of the majority should be accepted cheerfully, and full co-operation should be given by all citizens in carrying out that decision.

If we are concerned for the preservation of the American system of government, we must realize that the basic principle of that system is to be preserved in all instances and at all hazards is majority rule.

If we believe in the principles of the founders of this nation, we must remember that they founded the republic on the principles of free discussion and then universal acceptance of the popular decision.

Let all who constitute the minority accept the decision of the majority not grudgingly but with confidence in the wisdom of the people, and let them do their part in giving the President of all the people the undivided support of all the people.

Let us hope and pray that the President's policies will be wise and just and that they will prove beneficial in the highest degree to the great country of which we are all loyal citizens.

AIR BOMBERS KILL 2000 IN MADRID

Bulletins

Lisbon, Portugal, Nov. 5 (AP)—Considered reports from insurgent lines outside Madrid today said 2000 persons had been killed in aerial bombardment of Madrid's suburbs.

(Dispatches from Madrid today mentioned no casualties as a result of the latest bombardments.)

London, Nov. 5 (IN)—The center of Madrid is aflame, according to a dispatch in the Daily Telegraph from Sir Percival Phillips, filed at Abasco, seven miles southwest of Madrid.

Madrid, Nov. 5 (AP)—Heavy aerial and artillery bombardments shook the outskirts of Madrid today as Fascist insurgents started the "decisive battle" for possession of the Spanish capital.

Two insurgent fighting ships, which chased off a government bombing plane, were shot down during a spectacular sky battle over the eastern section of the city.

Thousands of Madrid residents, watching the fight from rooftops, shouted wildly at the Socialist victors in the first air engagement over Madrid.

As the Fascist combat planes dove into a squadron of government fighters, one of the latter ships opened fire and one insurgent craft burst into flame. A second insurgent ship caught fire a few seconds later.

Both Fascist ships crashed in a field north of Valencia near Orta de Riu.

LAWSLIBS RINGS TOP-HEAVY NEW DEAL CONGRESS

DEMOCRATS HAVE 5 SEATS IN SENATE; 335 IN HOUSE

Toga Critics Silenced

WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
New York, Nov. 5 (INS)—The greatest partisan majority in the history of the U. S. Senate was given President Roosevelt today to enact his New Deal legislative program in the seventy-fifth Congress.

The new Senate will line up: 75 Democrats, 17 Republicans, 2 Farmers-Laborites, 1 Progressive, and 1 Independent.
Five Republicans survived the tremendous Roosevelt landslide in 32 contests contested through 22 States. Of these, three were re-elected after having been friendly to and off with the New Deal.

They were the veteran Senator William E. Borah in Idaho, Charles McNary in Oregon, and Arthur Capper in Kansas.

Two newcomers to overthrow Democratic opponents were the youthful Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. of Massachusetts, and young Gov. Harry S. Bridges in New Hampshire. Young Lodge, a grandson of the late senator of the same name, defeated Gov. James M. Curry.

In addition to his 75 Democratic senators, the President can expect staunch support from the veteran Independent Senator George W. Norris, who was elected in Nebraska as an Independent after abandoning his Republican party label. He also will be supported by the two new Republicans from Minnesota and the Progressive Senator Robert F. La Follette of Wisconsin.

CRITICS FALL IN LANDSLIDE
On the other hand, the Republicans lost five senior senators of the New Deal. They were Senators Daniel O. Hastings in Delaware, L. J. Dickinson in New Mexico, and Senator in New Jersey, Joseph H. R. Carey in Wyoming. All fell in the Roosevelt landslide.

The Republicans lost another seat in Michigan, where the Democrat, Wendell M. Willkie, was elected to the top won by the late Senator James C. Watson, who was an Independent in New York after having served three terms as a Republican.

SPEAKERS RE-ELECTED
The President, meanwhile, saw all his spokesmen re-elected. The included Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic director of the Senate; Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee; from Mississippi; Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama, leader of cotton legislation; and Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, legislative spokesman on appropriations and many fiscal matters.

The new Democratic majority will be broken by the independent. The new Democratic majority will be broken by the independent. The new Democratic majority will be broken by the independent.

DARK-HORSE CANDIDATE
Woodrow Wilson as the dark-horse candidate. An effective speaker and member of the Appropriations Committee, he fought for all New Deal measures when the four big senators were attacking them.

First Woman Enters Senate in Bay State

Miss Sybil Holmes Beats Muldowney In Home Town

For the first time in its history the crowded Senate chambers on Beacon Hill will echo to the voice of a stateswoman.

The voice will be that of Miss Sybil Holmes of Brookline, first woman in the political life of this Commonwealth ever to be elected state senator.

By reason of her stunning victory over her Democratic opponent, Edward O'Hara, Muldowney, of Brookline, this able, attractive, white-haired woman takes her place among the law-makers of the state.

A eloquent speaker, an able attorney, a staunch Republican, an idealist and a determined fighter for causes she deems just, she has the whole-hearted confidence of the constituency that elected her.

Heat of Battle

As former president of the Women's Republican Club, Miss Holmes took an active interest in the state and national political chess-board. As a Democratic primary Republican convention in Springfield, she held the first seat of the heat of battle.

Active in public life for many years, Miss Holmes has attained notable success as a probate lawyer, she was also failed to win two Republican vacancies. The 16th, however, was increased. The Massachusetts Bar Association's legislative committee, which gave special consideration to reports of judicial council, and framed and introduced bills to carry out recommendations of the council.

Miss Holmes has also been active in the affairs of the Civic Federation and the League of Women Voters. Her staunchest supporter is nationally-known Mrs. Mabel Walker Winderbatch. Both are members of the same sorority.

The new senator-elect has received many political appointments. She was one of the new members of the Massachusetts Tercentenary Commission and was the only woman to have the distinction of serving on that board.

Studied Industry

As a member of Governor Cowley's commission on unemployment and minimum wage control, Miss Holmes made an exhaustive nation-wide study of industrial conditions. She believes law a great vocation for women and advocated it freely as director of the Women's Education and Industrial Union, one of the many interests in which she was engaged.

Because of her police, intelligence and charm, Miss Holmes is constantly in demand as a public speaker, particularly at women's colleges. Many are the young women who today thank her for the advice she gave them in seeking their proper careers.

If you have any ideas to the contrary about this extraordinary woman, you might make a young man her home-town Brookline. There were just 14,535 persons in that town that cast their ballots for her.

Kane Wire Scores Fr. Coughlin

Frank Kane of the governor's secretariat staff today said the telegram to Father Coughlin blaming the Democrats for the defeat of Governor Curley for senator.

The telegram caused a stir in political circles. Whether or not it represented the views of Governor Curley could not be learned.

Kane, several months ago, visited Father Coughlin in Detroit and returned with a commission to supervise the Massachusetts units of the Union for Social Justice.

It was then generally believed Gov. Curley would have the support of Father Coughlin for whatever office he might seek, but Kane had hardly returned with his appointment that he was stricken with illness.

It was understood that members of the National Union complained the state superior could not be involved in politics.

Kane was until a few months ago head of the Governor's state employment bureau.

Mr. Hearst Gives His Views on Election

(Special to Boston Evening American)
Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5—The Seattle Guild Daily yesterday received the following telegram from William Randolph Hearst in response to its request for Mr. Hearst's views on the result of the election:

New York, Nov. 4.

Seattle Guild Daily, Seattle, Wash.

In answer to your request, let me say very frankly that in my opinion President Roosevelt's victory is absolutely stunning to those who opposed him and utterly astounding even to his supporters.

It justifies very largely the comparison of Mr. Roosevelt to Andrew Jackson, who is the only man in American history who had an equally overwhelming popular appeal and popular victory.

I have always been a Democrat—A Jeffersonian Democrat.

I believe thoroughly not only in the authority of the people, but in the superior wisdom of the majority. I believe that we should all not only comply cheerfully with the will of the majority but that we should endeavor to understand and appreciate and apply the wisdom embodied in it.

If Andrew Jackson's policies were essentially Democratic, why is it not reasonable to concede that Mr. Roosevelt's policies may be equally so—dictatorial in manner and method, but Democratic in essence.

When I was a great admirer and supporter of Mr. Roosevelt, as I was in the campaigns for his nomination and first election, and in the first years which followed his election—in fact, until, in my opinion, he went too far in a dictatorial direction—I gave him a picture of Andrew Jackson and a letter of that great American.

I thought then that Mr. Roosevelt resembled Jackson. Perhaps I was more nearly right than later.

Perhaps Roosevelt, like Jackson, has given essential democracy a new lease of life, and will establish it in power for a generation.

Even once in a while a republic needs a "new birth of freedom," as Lincoln phrased it.

That new infusion of Democratic blood prevents a nation from having hardening of the political arteries, and prolongs its existence.

The election has shown one final thing conclusively, and that is that no alien theory is necessary to realize the popular ideal in this country.

All that is needed is a vigorous application of fundamental democracy and a free exercise of American rights and liberties.

POLICE Fight to Save INFANT USE INHALATOR ON BABY

Aided by oxygen administered by police and firemen through an inhalator, three-month-old Allen Mason was battling for life at No. 10, in Folken street, Back Bay, today.

The child is being treated at his home following the refusal of his parents to bring him to City Hospital, after he had been refused admittance at Massachusetts General Hospital because of the contagious nature of his ailment.

The child is suffering from bronchitis, pneumonia complicated by whooping cough, according to Dr. Columbus W. Harrison of Chandler street, South End, who was summoned to treat him.

Prefer Home

Dr. Harrison said today he had refused to treat the infant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mason, and pleaded with them to allow the child to be taken to City Hospital, South Department, where provisions for contagious cases have been made.

The parents, after being refused at the Massachusetts General Hospital, told the doctor that they preferred to have the child treated at home, he said.

The refusal came yesterday afternoon after his mother had called for official, requesting oxygen treatment, when the child became quite serious.

Denied Entry

After an inhalator had been used on the child he was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital in the ambulance of the Back Bay police station.

Doctors explained there that the hospital is not permitted to admit contagious cases and recommended that the baby be taken to one of the South Department at City Hospital.

Treated, police said the mother insisted on returning home with the child, and she would have him treated there.

Los Angeles, Nov. 5 (AP)—Two dozen rotten eggs, piled against George Hays's back, settled his presidential election bid with Jimmy I. Fennell, fellow truck driver. Nearly 1800 persons saw the water splashed in a lumber yard here.

HARPO MARX MARRIED

Comedian Wed in Secret Sep. 26

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
The most exciting news in days was the word today that Harpo Marx and Ruth Fleming had been married last September 26.

Harpo and Ruth have been keeping company—it will garden this many years and their engagement had been rumored from time to time but neither one ever confirmed the report of an impending marriage so today that when Harpo and Ruth were married, it was a surprise to all that they had been married for over a month, it was a surprise to all that the exciting revelation came so late in life.

NAMES ARBITER
In typical Marx fashion Harpo said that he couldn't remember the date, it was somewhere in California, and that he was only thirty when the date was September 26, but he did know he was married and he did know he would marry into the Marx household in Beverly Hills next week.

The reason Harpo was able to

Handsome, But Not Quins' 'Big Moment'

"THEY'RE FUNNY THAT WAY!"—There's many a young lady who would jump at the opportunity of walking into the arms of handsome Robert Kent, who plays the lead role in the Quins' new film, "Reunion," but not on with the Screen Acting Quins left to right, Annette, Marie, Yvonne, Cecile and

Emile. "Aw, c'mon," says Kent. "No!" says Annette, who's being encouraged by a pretty nurse. Her famous sisters, Marie, seem equally unimpressed, if not slightly bored. The scene was taken on "location" as film workers prepared to "shoot" another scene from "Reunion."

EARL'S MYSTERY MARRIAGE UNDECIDED

NUPTIALS OFF, PAIR RUSH TO N. Y.

New York, Nov. 5 (INS)—Shrouded in a greater mystery than any of the Egyptian tombs, his father uncovered, the earl of Carnarvon passed a hotel room here today and wondered whether his marriage to the Hon. Mrs. Tania Quins Montagu was on or off.

What Mrs. Montagu, whose the Earl was to have married yesterday at the British embassy in London, was wondering, nobody seemed to know.

Behind a locked door and an unopened window in her suite at the hotel, she remained strictly incommunicado.

SOCIETY WONDERS
Here, society in whose circles the Earl and his bride-to-be were supposed to be, the Earl's friends in the morning papers and picked up in his bed, did a bit of wondering about it.

That halted the diving in Weymouth Pond, which the cottage of Mr. George Amos, located in Weymouth, instead of trying to replace Wallace, however, Inspector Frederick Young and his assistant, Detective Michael J. Flinn, turned their activities toward questioning of several persons named undisclosed.

Wallace complained yesterday of having a time right arm. The day before he had suffered a slight attack of the dreaded third ailment, the "bends."

Meanwhile, Oscar Victor Bartol, Quincy harborer indicted for the Amos diving, has had counsel appointed to defend him, and the government has authorized a $500 expense fund for his defense.

Attorney George B. Loring, whose fee is to be paid by the date, has been assigned as Bartol's counsel by Judge Frederick W. Fowles in Norfolk Superior Court.

Shortly afterward, however, he was removed. It was understood that members of the National Union complained at having a man associated with politics at their helm.

"The nothing to say about that," said the Governor. "That's a long time off. I'm out of politics for the time being. I am going to be a gentleman."

Kane's telegram to Mr. Coughlin called a stir in political circles when the fact became known. Several months ago Kane went to Detroit and, with a copy of the radio priest, returned with an appointment as general supervisor at all units of the National Union for Social Justice in Massachusetts.

NAZIS Decree Jail, DEATH CODE FIXES PENALTIES

Berlin, Nov. 5 (AP)—A drastic, sweeping penal code for Nazi Germany was disclosed to the press for the first time today by Minister of Justice Franz Guertner and other Nazi legal experts.

Notable features are:

1. The death penalty for murder and extraordinary kidnapping.
2. Prison sentences for "publicly insulting the limitation of the number of offspring," curtailing the market, making insulting remarks about Adolf Hitler.
3. Monetary fines or jail sentences for recruiting the posts of citizens who have since proved worthless, causing or ordering strikes or lockouts and disclosing industrial secrets in foreign countries.

The spirit of the code is summed up in its preface, which says in part:

"The healthy feeling of the people for right and wrong determines the content and application of the penal code. Attainment for wrong, the protection of our people as a whole, determine its meaning and purpose."

"Its task is to safeguard honor and fidelity, raise heredity, defend powers of labor, discipline and order."

"The common weal takes precedence over private advantage."

The new code is based on the Nazi principle that protection of the nation, rather than protection of the individual, is the paramount consideration in jurisprudence.

Behind closed doors, the government today began its case in federal court against six defendants, including a 15-year-old girl charged with violating the "white slave" law.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Frank W. Townsend, told Judge George C. Swain today that the government will attempt to show conspiracy to transport the 15-year-old girl from her home in Passaic, New Jersey to Massachusetts, and to "sell her" for $100.

Four of the defendants gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Harry Skinner and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sheppard of New York and New Jersey. They pleaded not guilty while the young girl entered a plea of guilty.

Prosecutor Townsend charged that Skinner had met the girl in Passaic and persuaded her to go to New York where her hair was bleached and then she was taken to Massachusetts in an auto.

Pays Bet By Walk in Indies

Des Moines, Nov. 5 (INS)—Dressed in the latest fashions in long, wooden underwear, Mrs. Mildred Morrison, 25, pretty, blonde, walked across Belle Isle Bridge here in freezing weather to pay off an election bet.

Her elapsed time was four minutes and 35 seconds, a record for long underwear walks across the bridge.

In addition to the long white underwear, Morrison selected a man's hat, a short leather jacket, and a short leather skirt for her outfit. The sign said:

"London lost. So did I."

Pope Pius Has Minor Operation

Vatican City, Nov. 5 (INS)—Pope Pius XI underwent a minor operation several days ago, it was learned today.

Details of the operation are being carefully guarded by his physicians, but it was ascertained that incisions were used behind each ear to relieve a minor blood congestion in the Pope's head.

Some of the Pontiff emphasized that he is not in dangerous health, despite his 79 years and the story that he has recently suffered over events in Spain.

Since that time, however, he has continued to carry out his duties, and held audiences almost daily.

PAYROLL GUARD URGED AFTER GUN RAID

Precautions against an outbreak of big kidnaping in Boston were taken by police today following a hand-to-hand raid on the postal garage in Ipswich street, where eleven revolvers were stolen.

Police officials began contacting all concerns with large payrolls to advise heavy guards and to make arrangements for police protection in cases where such sums are at stake.

Throughout Greater Boston cash transactions were being taken by Federal agents under command of Chief Inspector Daniel J. Brennan are leading the search for the hand-to-hand, believed to be a gang responsible for a recent series of robberies.

Brennan said the gun thieves, if caught and convicted, will be sentenced to serve 25 years each in Federal prison. That sentence is mandatory under the law forbidding interference with postal employees in the performance of their duties.

The law also provides for a reward of $500 for information leading to capture and conviction of such criminals, and Brennan formally announced that such a reward is offered in this case.

Postmaster Peter F. Tague, conferring with the chief inspector, said Brennan and his staff had a 100 per cent record of arrests, and could be counted upon to solve the present crime.

4 YOUTHS IN GUN RAID
Inspector Harry Fitzhugh, who was assigned to the case, said that he was in the garage when he had been playing on druggists which have a regular station.

The gun raid was led from a garage in the postal garage, near Park street, by two youths, who fired in a sudden in which two men were killed. The youths were taken from the garage by police.

The robbery was the largest of its kind in Boston since the night of 1934 when the Milken-Peter gang landed a major police exhibit in the Milken-Peter Building of guns which they employed in the capture of crime which ended in the electric chair in Charleston in 1935.

The holdup came after midnight when John Campbell, a dispatcher, and William J. Fallon, of Fifth street, South Boston, a driver, were on the floor of the garage near the office.

The pair told police they were starting by the order, "Get up!" They turned and faced two youths, both armed with revolvers, who motioned them into the garage office.

Once in the office they were ordered to lie face down. One of the pair stood guard over them, threatening to shoot if they moved.

The other, meanwhile, moved to the gun rack and rapidly stripped as many of the weapons as he could carry from the supply.

court and pay a $5 fine for drunkenness. Attorney Edward Greenberg of the radical International Labor Defense committee represented him.

Murphy was delayed still further in getting down to strike lines for the day. For when he did arrive, Benjamin Goodman and William Golden, police radical squad leaders, invited him to take an automobile ride with them to police headquarters.

He went along without any argument. The officers said that there were those who would like to see a strike radical with the strike leaders. Murphy, however, said only when a press photograph started to "shoot" as he stepped into the police car. He said:

"Now, now. Please, not in this car. I'll give you a picture somewhere else."

Word was also received here that the Donnan Steamship Company of Gloucester is en route to the port from Savannah, Ga. It was tied up Monday by a walkout of dock workers.

NEW CREWS FOUND
The city of Atlanta, of the same line, was also on its way from Savannah to New York and Boston. Although federal shipping experts in Washington estimated that 200 ships are strike-bound in various ports, the city officials said that $100,000 a day—International Seamen's Union officials are working on new crews to replace out-of-work strikers.

Four ships, this provided with new personnel, broke the Red blockade in New York and sailed today. Strike leaders were also found to an agreement to work with government-owned ships.

FIGHT TO FINISH
Retaliating determination of the International Seamen's Union to "finish" all other ships, David F. Chicago, a vice-president of the union, said today:

"This is a fight to the finish. We are fighting for a principle, and that is that the American flag shall fly over the merchant marine—the Red flag of Communism."

There was some talk of calling for President Roosevelt to intervene when American Secretary of Labor Edward F. McDuffy had apparently hit several leaders in his spectacular move with West Coast strikers. Eastern union men, however, felt this would be unnecessary.

Japanese Stabbed, Shanghai Guarded
Shanghai, Nov. 5 (AP)—Japanese troops were rushed into the Hong Kong section of Shanghai today after an unidentified person stabbed a Japanese civilian.

The victim, a restaurant owner named Shigeru Kagoshima, recovered a deep wound in the neck as he was walking last night with his wife and child in North China road.

MOTOR DEATHS MONT TO 186

Death, taking the wheel, scored two more victims today, bringing this year's Greater Boston toll of auto fatalities to 186.

A third auto victim was dying today at City Hospital. The other victim was a man killed by a car on a street in South End.

His skull was fractured and his lung punctured when he was hit by an automobile as he was crossing Washington street, South End, near his home.

The car was driven, police said, by Arthur J. Spiney, a C.O.C. member.

The unidentified auto victim was killed when he was hit by a Boston Elevated bus near Washington and West Newton streets, South End. He was about 36 years old.

Papers in his pocket here the names of Harry Hoffman, Arthur Hoffman and Arthur Hoffman, South End street, South End, address.

3 NEW STRIKES
IN PARIS
Paris, Nov. 5 (AP)—Three fresh strikes were called by French workers today as Communists and Rightists opposed a regular Chamber of Deputies session with vigorous debate.

The 200 employees of the Panhard-Lavassor automobile factory in Paris refused to work. The refinery refused to close of the property and stone workers making statues for the 1937 international exposition, walked out.

Buttery workers in Paris called a meeting for tomorrow to discuss a possible strike.

A slight increase in the price of bread was announced, to become effective Nov. 3.

Heated criticism between Communists and Rightists featured the Chamber's opening session during which the government made speedy action on its financial and tax reform measures.

Snow Clogs Roads In Adirondacks
Adirondack, N. Y., Nov. 5 (AP)—A heavy blanket of snow virtually sealed villages in the Adirondacks today, breaking off hundreds of trees, disrupting power and communications lines and making driving dangerous. Two deaths were attributed to the storm.

Snow was heaviest at SARATOGA LAKE. That mountain village lay buried beneath a foot and a half of soggy snow.

Battle to Save Last Quadruplet

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 5 (US)—Doctors held low over an incubator as they tried to save the life of the only baby left of the Missouri quadruplets. They were more hopeful than before and said the tiny girl had a good chance to survive.

Two of the quadruplets, Mrs. James Bridges, the wife of a sharecropper, died shortly after they entered the world. The third died yesterday. The lone survivor weighs only two and a half pounds but seems stronger than the others.

Murder, Suicide In Revenge Plot

Groton, Conn., Nov. 5 (US)—G. W. Point, a cotton mill worker, came all the way from Augusta, Georgia, to carry out a threat of vengeance. He entered the home of his estranged wife, shot her to death and put the gun to his own head. Mrs. Point recently wrote to her husband: "I love you better than anything in the world. But I can never live together." This note of tragedy was found in the dead man's pocket.

New York, Nov. 5 (AP)—Wallace Boardman, an employee of the county clerk's office at Minnola, Long Island, made the mistake of betting that Judge William Blockley would be elected Governor of New York. Boardman paid off by getting down on his knees and pushing a goose 850 feet with the tip of his nose.

Mystery in Kelley Death Unsolved

Deery, N. H., Nov. 5 (AP)—Lack of clues kept unsolved today the mysterious death of John J. "King" Kelley, 44, one-time catcher in the old New England semi-pro baseball league.

Discovery of Kelley's blood-spattered body in his home precipitated an investigation. Later, Medical Doctor William J. With reported it remained uncertain as to whether death was caused by a fall or a blow.

Kelley played for the Manchester, N. H., team when it captured the New England League title in 1924, and once played with the Worcester note.

Russian Tanks Captured As Guns Rock Madrid

With Insurgent Forces South of Madrid, Nov. 5 (AP)—Insurgent army today was reported shelling Madrid from Getafe, the capital's second largest suburb, only eight miles away.

The attack was resumed after a truce of Monday had expired and ended by a cease-fire on Tuesday at Velasco, six miles south of Getafe and well within insurgent lines.

NAZI - CATHOLIC PACT SEEN

Berlin, Nov. 5 (AP)—A brief communication today disclosed that Reichsmarschal Adolf Hitler received Michael Cardinal Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, at the chancellery residence at Berchtesgaden, Bavaria.

Long regarded as one of Hitler's most ardent opponents, the German Roman Catholic leader's reception was interpreted in some quarters as foreshadowing a possible reconciliation of the long-smoldering Nazi-Catholic breach.

FAKE KIDNAP PLOTS DISCLOSED

By MELVIN PURVIS

Joke Fails To Bring Laugh

CHAPTER XIX

During those turbulent years in Chicago many things happened. One day the excited voice of a woman told us over the telephone that her husband had been kidnapped and that ransom note had been received demanding a good-sized sum of money for his release.

Much negotiation took place during the next two days, during which time we remained on the case without interruption.

Finally, the letter came from the kidnappers instructing the wife as to the manner in which the money was to be transmitted. It indicated that the victim's wife should go to a specified hotel, in the Loop section of Chicago. There she would receive an additional message. We did not know what the message would be, but we knew it would arrive, and so we waited. The wife did not arrive, and so we waited some time longer. The wife did not arrive, and so we waited some time longer. The wife did not arrive, and so we waited some time longer.

Special Agents were posted at points to add around the hotel prepared for any emergency as might arise. No one could foresee what might happen.

While we were there we kept in close touch with the office, and after a little while we received a telephone call which indicated that the kidnapping victim was at that time located in the rear of a restaurant in Chicago's West Side.

Immediately, plans were made to continue the cover at the hotel, and the wife was left to receive the victim. We spent through the streets of Chicago with great care, and reached the place about eight minutes later. We entered in with great caution, and the kidnapping victim was there. He was a man in a suit, and he was looking at us with a very suspicious expression.

He had planned well up to a certain point, but he had overestimated.

Mrs. Edward G. Bremer and Daughter, Betty

Edward G. Bremer Alvin Karpis

many things in the story he was to tell. His kidnappers were never found, and the case remained a mystery for some time. Finally, weeks later I had him brought in to my office.

I explained to him the story he was to tell. His kidnappers were never found, and the case remained a mystery for some time. Finally, weeks later I had him brought in to my office.

Dictograph Aid

Since he would not talk in the presence of anyone with whom his fantastic story indicated was connected, he had never been kidnapped. I planned to bring him back again and make him repeat the story in the presence of several witnesses.

From his next visit a dictograph was connected up, a microphone underneath my desk picked up what he would say. Two stenographers in the next room, with ear phones on their heads took down the conversation.

He gave me every reason to believe that he had never been kidnapped, but he would not admit it. He was informed that if he had not been kidnapped, his action would constitute attempted fraud for which he might be prosecuted.

His reaction to this was interesting. He had been studying law at the time and, although his knowledge of the law could not be relied upon, he was sufficiently intelligent to outline several hypothetical cases.

He was never prosecuted although the gang had tried to overlook nothing, even to the most minute detail.

The government investigation had an almost storybook quality. It was so interesting as it was widespread, and the solution was arrived at in almost fabulous lightning. Together of many hundreds of small details, it would have been difficult, I am sure, for any single state police officer to have made any great progress with the mystery.

The roots of this case were spread over a dozen states and penetrated even into the brilliant white gambling casinos of tropical Cuba. The reason why a single state police force, be it efficient as it might be, could not cope with the crime was because of these facts. The Bremer case provided the ultimate justification of a federal police corps which transcends state lines and the covering and investigation of local jurisdictions.

though a prosecution would have been justified not only by reason of his attempted fraud, but as a preventive measure in similar cases in the future.

There were many other fantastic incidents to test the patience of Job. A doctor in Chicago received a letter demanding a large sum of money; the demand was accompanied by threats of dire consequences if the money were not paid. He instructed the doctor to place the package containing the money in a secluded spot in a cemetery on the outskirts of Chicago on a specified Saturday night.

Dummy Package

The doctor gave us the letter and followed our usual procedure in preparing a dummy package and placing it at the spot indicated by the writer of the letter. Our men were placed at points of vantage from which they watched the spot on that night. Nobody came.

Another letter was received indicating that there had been a hitch in the plans; this letter demanded that the money be placed the next Saturday night. Again the Special Agents observed until the wee small hours of the Sunday morning following. Nobody came.

We wondered if our men had been spotted and had frightened off the prey, but our anxiety in this respect was allayed a few days later when the doctor received an additional unsigned letter stating that it was all a joke. Somehow we didn't feel that way about it, and it would have given us great satisfaction if we could have learned the identity of the writer of those letters.

It has been a popular belief that the writer of those letters could not have been prosecuted even if we had been successful in establishing his identity. He could have been prosecuted, however, if he had written the letters and it would have been difficult for him to have given that as his only alibi.

The men of the Federal Bureau of Investigation would have been just as zealous in developing that case as they would have been in developing a case involving the most desperate kidnapper. The man was never identified.

When an extortion letter is received by a victim, the special agents have no other course but to approach the problem as if the writer meant business. The same is true in any case. When a report came in our office we had no way of determining its authenticity without investigation.

"Perfect" Plans

The solving of the Bremer kidnapping case and the resultant destruction of the Barker-Karpis gang has always seemed to me one of the major triumphs of the special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The Bremer case was a highly talented challenge of a cunning and crafty underworld.

The machinery of the kidnapping itself, the negotiations which led to the final passing of the ransom, the reconstruction and organization which was very evident in the existence of the money, present an illuminating picture of the present day crime in all its atrocious and intricate balance. In planning this kidnapping the gang had tried to overlook nothing, even to the most minute detail.

The government investigation had an almost storybook quality. It was so interesting as it was widespread, and the solution was arrived at in almost fabulous lightning. Together of many hundreds of small details, it would have been difficult, I am sure, for any single state police officer to have made any great progress with the mystery.

organization and the elimination of state, county, and municipal agencies.

In my judgment the desirable end is first to improve each of these units and effect a coordination between the law enforcement agencies of the Federal government, state, county, and municipality through wholehearted and intelligent cooperation.

I am not one of those who believes that the states are impotent and unable to meet their local problems. Rather, I believe that crime is so frequently a local problem that any step intended to deter the administration of efficiency in local police departments should be met with wide dispersal on the part of the citizenry.

Local Forces Vital

True, the federal government's organizations have proved to be far more effective in the solution of many of the greatest crimes of the day, but that is because those crimes were planned on a large scale and were perpetrated by criminals.

This "Welcome Boys" attitude, fantastic as it seems today, was the deliberate policy in half a dozen cities. It is entirely possible that the general run of the populace is not cognizant of such police policies while they are in existence.

Certainly, if the good citizens had known of such policies I do not see how they could be allowed to continue.

In my opinion this policy shows up the formulation of it as a short-sighted, well-knew, unintelligent individual, a person who has no regard for the future and with very little knowledge of the ways of the underworld. It shows him up as a person who is unable, whether it be due to the lack of mental character or training, to face the issue as it stands when it stands.

But what does this policy do? It creates a bitter hatred and utter disregard, to say the least, of all law-enforcement officials, and the so-called society which permits such practices.

Government policy on the safe return of kidnapped persons, and an account of the Keating-Holden gang, are told in tomorrow's installment of Melvin Purvis' "American Agent" series.

Government policy on the safe return of kidnapped persons, and an account of the Keating-Holden gang, are told in tomorrow's installment of Melvin Purvis' "American Agent" series.

But what does this policy do? It creates a bitter hatred and utter disregard, to say the least, of all law-enforcement officials, and the so-called society which permits such practices.

LOUELLA FILMS—DRAMA NOTES

Bing Crosby to Quit Musical Roles

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service.

Los Angeles, Nov. 5.—No more standardized musicals for Bing Crosby. Stories, exciting ones, with the Crosby crooning voice heard only in incidental songs, is the plan now materializing at Paramount. The first evidence of the new plan is in the purchase of "Fly By Night" by Eric Hatch, of "My Man Godfrey" fame.

Bing in the picture plays a straight role in a comedy murder mystery. He plays a man who is a detective, but only three numbers and a sequence without a single song. The picture is a comedy murder mystery. He plays a man who is a detective, but only three numbers and a sequence without a single song.

Can it be that Crosby, who has been a high for the last few years, is now a low? The picture is a comedy murder mystery. He plays a man who is a detective, but only three numbers and a sequence without a single song.

Loew's Film Held Second Week

"Labeled Lady" the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-star production featuring William Powell, Jean Harlow, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy, goes into its second week at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters tomorrow by popular demand.

This is the story of a girl who crashed the headlines through in fact of her own and more Managing Editor Tracy for five million dollars' ransom.

The girl, daughter of the newspaper's dead-end, is a thoroughly played by Myrna Loy. Bill Powell plays the suave, dapper editor who's required because he is on good "time" to fall in love with Miss Loy.

Jean Harlow is the bride-to-be of Tracy. When their wedding is called off because of the suit, Jean goes into magnificent tantrum. She is better than ever long on the screen before.

Glamorous Juliet Coiffure Rises to New Fashion Heights This Year

By DONNA GRACE

A FEW years ago we were content to wear a popular hair style for a year or so. Some women who were not so interested in fashion as they must be today wore their hair in the little girl styles until it was time to "do up" their long hair, and then they put it up in the style their mother and elders wore, and that was all there was to it.

There were the fancy ringlets over the ears and many curls, but everyone wore the same styles, and they lasted for a generation.

It took the hairstylists of this age to wake us up to the importance of changing the contours of our hair. We have now followed the vogue in hat styles. This however is a move away from the old, and the new and handsome claim leadership, so we intend to let them settle that for themselves. There are other hair styles besides hats, and as a matter of fact, at the time, there is a fall for the Juliet curls and cap that has been replaced by the beautiful Norma Shearer in "Home and Juliet".

troopers Arrange to Take Jack Leslie to Prison

CHAPTER I

IF EYES could have killed, Jack Leslie's discolored, malignant orbs would certainly have been death to Dicky and me, and, indeed, to Katherine as well.

But, fortunately, to Leslie, writing implicitly in the name of the state troopers, Dick, Katherine and I were Private Enemies One, Two and Three.

He was a man of middle age, with a high forehead, a large nose, and a small mouth. He was a man of middle age, with a high forehead, a large nose, and a small mouth.

HE laughed at me when I said I didn't need a parlour maid to help me entertain.

I, myself, would entertain my guests and get up the table for my first formal dinner to very important guests.

And what a service the Home Institute has for me. I have been to the Home Institute and I have seen the service and I have seen the service.

Smoking Camels encourages

...increases alkalinity...brings a sense of well-being

YOU eat over a thousand meals a year! Many kinds of foods. At all kinds of times and places. Sometimes you are free of care—at other times, worried and nervous. Yet, thanks to Camels, you can help digestion meet these changing conditions easily.

Smoking Camels speeds up the flow of fluids that start digestion off well and keep it running smoothly. Tension eases. Alkalinity increases. You enjoy your food more—and have a feeling of greater ease and contentment after eating. Make time, any time, to make it Camels.

To millions of men and women, Camels are the last word in cigarette enjoyment. Camels do not get on your nerves—or tire your taste—facts that steady smokers especially appreciate. When you feel yourself slowing up, get an invigorating "lift" in energy with a Camel. And for digestion's sake, choose Camels as your smoking.

And they insure a sense of cheer and well-being at my meals—times and after meals too. Camels make me cheery."

ANOTHER CHAMPION WHO SMOKES CAMELS. Petite Dorothy Holderman set a glider record for both men and women. "One who's never tried it can scarcely imagine how gliding for hours, with only empty air beneath you, affects digestion," she says. "But tense as I may get, a few Camels at mealtime bring my digestion right back. Camels are gentle to my throat."

GIRL
TOWNBY
Marjorie McBride

Literary life is about the last thing the average man would like to do in Charleston, South Carolina, but it exists. During the tenure of Warren Frank J. W. Lamm, several prominent authors have been discovered.

One of two are still serving their time at "State's". The others have been freed. But you'll never learn their identities. From the warden, J. Coleman, who edits The Mentor, the prison magazine. When persons contribute, and all stories and articles are by the inmates... only initials are used.

As head of the prison, Lamm actually is publisher of the unusual sheet, and part of his job is censoring copy and art. He has his own system. Naturally, some of the copy can't be used, but he won't tell the men what his rules are for admission to the magazine. They learn by the trial-and-error method. If a contribution is refused, they reason there was something in it ("the boss didn't like it").

Writing Gives Outlet
For Suppressed "Steam"

"I don't want the men to feel inhibited," he told Girl About Town.

"We prefer to have them send in what's in their minds, even if it isn't printed. Effusions that never get published serve to relieve the tension, too."

Lamm has to turn down a good many offerings in the course of a month... particularly poetry, which men in confinement find emotional release in.

The Mentor is printed as well as written at the prison and all the work is done there. The men share for it. When an editor "finds" a man about a certain author, the warden goes along to see him. Friend of authorship, privately expressed, is about the only return for the author still serving time. Lamm seems to it that even men in the same tier don't know number and name of their fellow inmates.

Cowgirl Former Pupil
At N. E. Conservatory

Miss Thompson, the cowgirl from Mansfield, is now, or was, at the Boston Garden. She is now at the Mansfield farm on which she was born, and hoping an injury suffered when she was fifteen during the fall in New York will not prove permanent.

Miss Thompson was born Emily Harding. After high school, she attended New England Conservatory of Music and thought of a career as a concert singer.

When the family moved West, she changed her mind, and decided to become one of those daring young women who come running out of the circus to the ring for the amusement of Col. W. T. Barnum's customers. In the Madison Square Garden incident, her leg was fractured. She was at the opening Boston show in a box, and on crutches.

As a little girl in Mansfield, Miss Thompson rode a Norman pony, and was a very conventional child, who thought there were Indians in war paint west of the Mississippi.

Better be polite to those young men who serve you after six at Schrafft's. You may be consulting him in his capacity of doctor, lawyer, engineer, or chemist, but you know it. Only one legume are hard to wait on the dinner, and only one hard to wait on at Schrafft's. The boys have never been so courteous and kept their hugging. And how, as business and social position, it is a good thing to see a firm prefer women to men in the food and candy departments, as well as the rooms and women.

Modern apartment house dwellers aren't used to them. Commonly placed, and movable in the dark, they account for many a humiliating tumble.

Hurtling Death

Waltham Man's Tale of Ride on Strangest Vehicle Known to Man

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY

ERNE SMITH claims he's the only man that has ever done it. Way back in 1850 Ernie took a ride and he doesn't think it has ever been duplicated.

Since that day people have learned to cruise around in automobiles, and airplanes, and submarines, and whatnot, but Ernie professes to be the only man in the world who ever took a ride on a rock.

Ernie lives at 31 MAYFIELD ROAD, WALTHAM. He's reached the age of discretion now, and he doesn't go whooping around the country on rocks anymore, but when he was 16 years old—well, it seems he didn't much care what he traveled on.

In those days he lived in the little town of Vinalhaven, Maine, and had a job working for a fellow named Combs who ran a small boat building establishment down by the water front.

Combs was a very kind and generous man, and was always ready to help a fellow townsmen. He had a small boat building establishment down by the water front, and he was always ready to help a fellow townsmen. He had a small boat building establishment down by the water front, and he was always ready to help a fellow townsmen.

The water front at Vinalhaven started with a high sandbank that was a narrow beach, and beyond the beach, mud flats stretched far out into the water.

It was long and the mud flats were almost bare. At the end of the beach was a fish house, a three story structure ten feet high, and a few feet away from that was a big wooden pier 20 or 30 feet long and well over six feet high.

It was a very old pier, and it was always ready to help a fellow townsmen. It was a very old pier, and it was always ready to help a fellow townsmen.
